

Dorothy began her career in Oakland, CA working in non-profit anti-poverty and youth development organizations. She moved to Philadelphia in 2009 and worked for Big Brothers Big Sisters Independence Region (BBBS) for nine years, eventually leading the community-based enrollment team as the Senior Manager of the department. While at BBBS, Dorothy served as the team leader for the Diversity and Inclusion Work Team and helped develop the Mentoring and Racial Identity Training, a cultural competency workshop offered to adult and college-aged mentors. She co-facilitated the training for four years before moving on to the Mayor's Office of Education at the City of Philadelphia to manage the Community Schools initiative. Dorothy has a Master's in Counseling degree and is passionate about reading, exploring racial identity, and working with others to combat social injustice. Dorothy currently serves as a consultant/trainer for MENTOR, Independence Region and facilitates their Combatting White Saviorism workshops for schools and non-profit organizations.
